

NutriSMART® Food Sensitivity Rapid Test

Half of the population have "Food Sensitivity" but are unaware of it !

Have you ever thought about the foods you eat are making you sick because your body does not 'accept' them? Our stressful urban lifestyle, imbalanced diet and over-consumption of processed food with genetically modified food tend to lead to a poor gut health, giving rise to a growing trend of food sensitivity.

- Food sensitivity happens when our body has difficulty in digesting certain foods, leading
- to symptoms similar to chronic inflammation.
- Unlike acute reaction, delayed symptoms appear in hours or days after eating food.
- Food allergy could lead to similar symptoms as food intolerance, making it hard to distinguish.
- If you ignore these signals from your body, letting it strikes without finding out the culprits,
- they are likely to turn into serious lifestyle diseases slowly.
